

TAWPI Hires Ken Yokum as Industry Analyst and Consultant, 2/02/09

The Association of Work Process Improvement (TAWPI) is pleased to announce its partnership with Kenneth Yokum. Ken will serve an advisory role with TAWPI, helping the organization expand its key educational roles in healthcare payments, document management, payments processing, and international outsourcing. He brings 35 years of experience in bank operations, retiring from JPMorgan Chase last year, most recently serving as Senior Vice President of Remittance Operations.

Ken is extremely familiar with the TAWPI organization, previously serving two terms as its Chairman. He is also a past recipient of TAWPI's Herb Schantz Distinguished Service Award. Since his retirement, Ken has been involved with a variety of business ventures and consulting engagements. He is extremely excited about this particular assignment. "With the challenges facing every industry at this point in time, TAWPI's role has never been more pronounced," said Ken Yokum. "In conjunction with an outstanding staff and Board of Directors, I look forward to bringing fresh, actionable ideas to the broad constituency we serve."

"Our research studies, webinars, conferences, and annual forum will continue to provide significant value to our clients," said TAWPI President Frank Moran. "Ken's extensive industry background will help us anticipate emerging trends and develop products that serve our members changing needs," said TAWPI President Frank Moran. "We are fortunate to offer insight from such an industry authority."
